

Contact

P: (345)946-7780

E: nra@nra.ky

WELCOME TO NRA!

NEWS DESCRIPTION

Roads are one of the first indicators of the stability and strength of any country's infrastructure. They are the avenues to social and economic growth, providing access to health centres, financial institutions, supermarkets and most importantly, to family and friends

"Roads are one of the first indicators of the stability and strength of any country's infrastructure. They are the avenues to social and economic growth, providing access to health centres, financial institutions, supermarkets and most importantly, to family and friends.

They are a central way of our life, and that's the reason why it is vital for our country to establish a framework in which roads are carefully designed, developed and maintained," quoted from the former Minister of Works Honourable Gilbert McLean.